LITTLE TREE EVERGREENS

EVERGREENS are the greatest factor in the successful planting of home grounds. They combine in the highest degree, beauty, adaptability and endurance, and no landscape is completely satisfying without them.

Little Tree evergreens are produced from the hardiest northern grown seed, collected and selected with great care. Old World ideals of patient and intensive cultivation combined with New World ideas of economical management and large scale production make possible stock of the highest quality at prices that fear no competition. This holds good, size for size, grade for grade, whether you buy one plant or a thousand.

Few realize the years of careful cultivation required to produce a specimen evergreen.

The seeds germinate slowly—some remaining in seed beds for two years before showing life. After the tiny seedlings poke their heads above the ground they are frequently watered and weeded. At the end of two years the seedlings are similar to the plant below marked S. They are then transplanted to fresh soil and given space to develop. At the same time, superfluous roots are pruned off and the top is trimmed. These once transplanted evergreens (See illustration T above) are diligently tended for two years—when they are dug up, root pruned, trimmed, and again replanted in fresh soil.

The evergreens are now twice transplanted like the Arborvitae in the illustration above marked TT. Two more years of cultivation and the transplanting process is again repeated.

Though the plants are now three times transplanted, they are left to grow for two years before they are dug and shipped to you.

You undoubtedly wonder "why the transplanting?" It is because this treatment checks top growth and stimulates root growth so that when the plant is finally dug for your order all the roots are in a compact ball of earth. The three times transplanted evergreen (illustration TTT above) though it may be only 2 or 3 feet high, is the product of seed planted nine or ten years before.

This painstaking care given the evergreens produced at Little Tree Farms develops exceptionally sturdy, strong-rooted plants that may be transplanted onto your property with promise of unusually gratifying results.

We believe that our customers want quality, and for this reason Little Tree Farms produces the best evergreens that can be grown.

Our prices include packing and delivery to the transportation companies at Framingham, Massachusetts

Abies balsameaBALSAM FIR

The delicious fragrance of this northern Fir, the "Christmas Tree" of tradition, is most appealing. Rich, dark needles with silvery green lining are carried on a straight-stemmed pyramid. (See illustration on page 6.) Use the 4 to 5 foot trees as lawn specimens. The 2 to 3 foot and 3 to 4 foot sizes are best for evergreen groups where the lovely, graceful foliage is very effective mingled with the other evergreens.

The Balsam is an unusually healthy and vigorous tree and fares best in cold climates like that of New England or the hilly parts of the Middle States. It will stand shade and wind and will thrive in damp climates.

Abies concolor*WHITE FIR

The White Fir (often called Silver Fir) has exquisite, silvery-toned foliage, soft in texture. Its habit of growth is erect and the broad graceful branches are very decorative. This vigorous, healthy Fir is always a favorite.

Little Tree Farms White Firs are grown from the best Colorado seed and are sturdy, well-rooted plants. Each specimen plant has been three or more times transplanted and has a large mass of fine roots. The larger Firs are dug with roots in a ball of native loam which is carefully wrapped in burlap. The smaller trees are shipped with roots in damp moss.

For fine lawn specimens there is nothing better than White Fir. Allowed to develop naturally, it maintains the magnificent proportions shown in the illustration at the right above. It usually retains its branches to the ground and is very long lived.

White Firs are used very effectively in groups with other evergreens. Where it is Now we are ready for some more trees—"

Pseudotsuga douglasii DOUGLAS FIR

Douglas Fir (frequently called Douglas Spruce), though partaking of the characteristics of both Firs and Spruces, is really a genus by itself. It is a tree of magnificent qualities and great antiquity, a favorite wherever it has been introduced.

The Douglas Fir is pyramidal in shape with heavily clothed branches which it usually retains close to the ground even in old age. It is remarkable for its wide variation in form and color. The needles may be long or short, light green, dark green or have a bluish or silvery cast.

It would be difficult to overrate the beauty of the Douglas Fir. This beauty, combined with exceptional vitality and adaptability to varying conditions of sun, soil and climate, make this species desirable for almost any purpose.

Little Tree Farms has the finest quality and largest quantity of Douglas Fir in the east. The trees are grown from hardy Colorado seed and frequent transplanting develops masses of fibrous roots.

*"B & B" (Balled and Burlapped) means roots in a ball of native loam wrapped and tied in burlap.

DOUGLAS FIR

FOR under-planting, the Douglas Fir is invaluable. It thrives in the partial shade of sparse woods or tall, scattered shade trees. Use Douglas Fir for "Mass" and Forest planting. Little Tree Farms transplants are grown especially for this purpose.

Shearing and pruning makes the Douglas Fir grow thicker and deeper. For this reason the species is particularly good for hedges. If you want a handsome, efficient, long-lived hedge there is nothing better. In the illustration below an attractive hedge incloses a garden designed by one of our landscape engineers.

This small Juniper, hardy and vigorous, is supreme for home decoration—formal or naturalistic. Its slender spire is clothed in feathery foliage, starred in Autumn with exquisite blue berries. The slender beauty of this evergreen is partially revealed in the illustration below. Little Tree Farms Red Cedars are carefully grown, healthy plants, well suited for use as accents around the house, in the garden or along drives.

WHITE SPRUCE

White Spruce is justly considered one of America's best conifers. It is a favorite among tree-lovers for it combines great vigor and wide usefulness with undoubted beauty and distinction. It is a rapid grower extremely hardy, and has a compact, conical shape with shimmering, silvery green foliage which is, in some trees, almost as blue as the Blue Spruce. It withstands exposure to salt air and pressure of snow or ice.

A single White Spruce specimen or a group is charming on a lawn. (See illustration above). Its color and foliage blend well in groups with other types of evergreens and it is indispensable in foundation and bed plantings. It is likewise perfect for drive and path entrances, garage or garden screens, or for border at edge of your lawn.

"Pleased and overjoyed"

Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

May 17, 1926

"We have been among the lucky ones who have purchased trees from you. We are so much pleased and overjoyed with them that we are endeavoring to persuade our friends, who are planning a garden of Fir trees to plant on the lawn, to buy from you. We assured them that they will have no regrets."

White Spruce bears shearing exceptionally well and may easily be kept within bounds. It is very popular for both formal and informal hedges—a handsome and impenetrable border. Use Little Tree Farms 2 to 3 and 3 to 4 foot sizes for hedges.

For woods planting, the small transplants and seedlings offer an opportunity to get large quantities of finest quality plants at low prices. We can recommend the sturdy well-rooted little plants. The illustration below shows a block of seedling White Spruces at Little Tree Farms.

White Spruce is frequently used in tubs or pots. Your friends will appreciate the gift of a living Christmas tree or a matched pair for planting at the doorway. The illustration above shows the compact shapeliness of Little Tree Farms selected trees.

ENGELMANN SPRUCE

This rare Spruce has unusual beauty of form and color. The slender spreading branches, in close whorls, form a dense pyramid. A Rocky Mountain species of extraordinary hardiness, its color suggests the Blue Spruce though the needles of the Englemann Spruce are softer and more pliant. Grows slowly. Excellent for specimen or group planting. Especially beautiful in pots because of its shapeliness.

NORWAY SPRUCE

The Norway Spruce is a handsome tree which grows very rapidly. Its dark green foliage is dense and graceful.

Little Tree Farms three times transplanted Norway Spruces are used extensively not only for purely decorative purposes, but also for windbreak and screen plantings. Where a quick-growing screen is needed to protect buildings or blot out an undesirable view, Norway Spruce is unsurpassed.

For quick-growing timber crops and future Christmas trees the twice transplanted stock, priced in next column, is invaluable. We use best hardy northern seed and because of quantity production are able to offer remarkable values.

The splendid characteristics of the Colorado Spruce are shown in the illustration above. Note the symmetry and radiance.

Picea pungens COLORADO SPRUCE

The Colorado Spruce has always been a feature of Little Tree Farms. All our plants of this species are grown from the seed of hardy trees of the high, cold region of the Rocky Mountains—its native home.

The color, ranging from clear green to a bluish green, is perfect in all its variations. Pyramidal in form, the full foliated branches extend to the ground, or near it, and are covered with lustrous needles. Magnificent in health, vigor, and endurance.

We can unqualifiedly recommend the three times transplanted Colorado Spruces for all ornamental plantings, single and grouped. Especially good for tubs and pots. See illustration and prices above.

The once transplanted quality is unusually well adapted for use in field and forest plantings.

Plant a row of these little transplants in your garden and in a few years you'll have ornamentals for use in your decorative plantings. We sell the small once transplanted trees "nursery run" which means you get all colors from green to true blue.

We can furnish many species and sizes not listed in this catalog. Write for quotations on the plants you want.

BLUE COLORADO SPRUCE

Blue Colorado Spruce is the bluest variant of the Colorado Spruce—the tree you mean when you ask for a "Blue" Spruce. Pyramidal in shape and unusually regular, the Blue Colorado Spruce has foliage of a beautiful silvery blue color. This extremely shapely and hardy tree is unquestionably the most popular of the Spruces.

It is said that Little Tree Farms has the largest and finest collection of Blue Spruces in the country. These handsome, shapely plants are without a peer for use in ornamental pots, at doorways, in gardens and group plantings, as accents and as lawn specimens. We annually supply thousands of these magnificent, vigorous trees to those who want the best.

The symmetrical beauty of the Blue Spruce is revealed in the illustration on this and the following page. This is the plant for dominant situations, a real evergreen jewel.

Pinus strobusWHITE PINE

White Pine is a supremely beautiful and valuable American tree. Rapid growing and hardy, it is one of the best commercial trees for New England and is widely used for reforestation. The once transplanted quality offered at the right is suitable for both commercial and pleasure woods. (Illustrated below).

For use as a lawn specimen, White Pine is unsurpassed. The soft silvery green color and spreading branches are wonderfully appealing. (Illustrated above).

White Pine makes a protective and decorative high screen or an excellent clipped hedge. It is planted as a background to gardens, along paths and drives, and in lawn groups. The three times transplanted quality is best for these types of planting.

Little Tree Farms White Pines are unusually vigorous. They are grown from selected, healthy northern seed and are expertly cared for so that they become fine, full-foliaged specimens like those shown above and on Page 15.

Thuya occidentalis

AMERICAN ARBORVITAE

Arborvitae is really an "all purpose" evergreen, indispensable in ornamental plantings, in formal designs and in naturalistic work.

The shape varies from a plump rounded spire to a slim pyramid. The illustrations on this page show the wide variation in form of this useful evergreen. The foliage sprays are flat and dark green—changing to a distinct bronze green in winter.

Arborvitae is very well adapted to both formal and informal planting. Little Tree Farms fine specimens 6 to 7 feet tall, like the tree pictured at left, only $10.00 each. Quality is unsurpassed. Exceptionally compact trees for tubs or pots illustrated and priced at right.

Naturally symmetrical, Arborvitae is used unsheared in informal types of planting. For formal groups or gardens, plants may be sheared to any shape desired.

No evergreen planting is complete without Arborvitae, the best all round evergreen. Its soft foliage contrasts pleasingly with the heavier needles of the Spruces, Pines and Firs.

Little Tree Farms Arborvitae are known and planted all over the country. From their magnificent roots to their shapely, full-foliaged tops, they are fitted for absolute success in every type of planting. Use the three times transplanted plants for all decorative plantings. Use the smaller grades for large "field" plantings. Arborvitae thrives in wet places and in the shade.

Tsuga canadensis

CANADA HEMLOCK

Canada or American Hemlock, illustrated at the left, is an evergreen of rare beauty and grace. Its rich toned, gently drooping, dark green foliage makes it invaluable for decorative planting. One of the best evergreens for shady spots. It grows well on northerly slopes and exposed to cold, but should be protected from very high winds. Little Tree Farms three times transplanted Hemlocks for foundation, garden, hedge and group plantings.

"Larger and Better" Washington, D. C.

April 17, 1926

"The order of 10 Hemlock Trees (T-3039) was received and I want to tell you that I am well pleased with them. They were larger and better than I expected."

If you want a very low hedge use the twice transplanted grade. The once transplanted quality is especially desirable for naturalistic plantings and extensive woods planting. If you have a strip of woods or a grove, plant these small Hemlocks here and there in naturalistic groups.

Rustic Fencing

Dubois WOVEN WOOD FENCE

These quaint fences (made in France) furnish an artistic and pleasing model of securing privacy. Selected live chestnut saplings are staunchly woven together with non-rusting wire and the saplings pointed at the top. The completed fence requires no painting and weathers quickly to a soft, beautiful brown. The texture of this barrier makes an ideal background for flowers and vines and harmonizes perfectly with almost any type of development.

Woven wood fence is particularly useful for small enclosures. Its purpose may be to shut off a garage or to provide a safe place for children to play—serving not only as a screen, but turning these places into spots of beauty.

Woven wood fence is inexpensive to erect and requires no skilled labor. This, plus the length of service it gives, makes it an equally good fence for a large enclosure. How long it will last has yet to be determined for the first Dubois Woven Wood Fence which was erected in this country over 20 years ago is still in perfect condition and holds promise of remaining so for many years to come.

“LITTLE TREE” WOVEN LATH FENCE AND SCREEN

An excellent Winter protection for evergreens, trees, shrubs and perennials. May be used about the house, on the lawn, or in the garden. Stand on edge to hold leaves or straw around plants or lay flat to hold leaves on perennial beds. May also be used as a fence for a chicken yard.

“Little Tree” Woven Lath Screens are made of selected lath woven together with five double strands of heavy galvanized wire. The space between the lath is made equal to the width of the lath in our standard screen but we shall be very glad to give estimates on the cost of varying this space to suit the particular requirements of the customer. For general use we have found this spacing most satisfactory, however, as it provides—when used for protection purposes—what is known as “half-shade”. In other words, it reduces the action of the elements by just one-half and this proportion seems most effective for properly combining protection and ventilation.

“Little Tree” Woven Lath Screens will last from ten to fifteen years with normal use and will often last much longer. It is very light and compact and rolls like a rug. A fifty-foot roll can easily be handled by one person. It can, of course, be cut to any length desired.

“Little Tree” Woven Lath Screen is made in both 3 and 4 foot widths at the same price.

10 to 50 feet long, $.25 per foot.

50 to 500 feet long $.20 per foot.

Shipping Seasons. Our improved methods allow safe shipping practically the year round, midwinter's cold marking the only pause. Especially for customers within easy trucking distance there need be no hesitation in ordering at any time save deep winter.

The usual nursery shipping seasons are:

In Fall. About the middle of August for evergreens, continuing through November. The first of October for hardwoods and shrubs continuing until the ground freezes. Evergreens for pots, tubs, veranda boxes, etc., are shipped until Christmas.

In Spring. As soon as the frost leaves the ground (usually about the middle of March), continuing until June, for Evergreens, Deciduous Trees and Shrubs, Vines, and Perennials. Roses, Dahlia tubers, Gladioli bulbs, etc., shipped March until May.

Planting time is determined not by the state of vegetation where the planting is to be done, but by the condition of the stock to be planted. So long as the plants are dormant or in movable condition they may safely be transplanted. We can ship to southern localities much later than would be supposed, because vegetation in Massachusetts is dormant much later.

Follow "LITTLE TREE" signs to reach the nursery on Pleasant Street, Framingham Centre.

Special Information

(Please Read)

Little Tree Farms is the trade name of the wholesale and retail nurseries of the American Forestry Company.

The Sales, Landscape and General Offices are at the retail nursery, Little Tree Farms, No. 2, on Pleasant Street, Framingham Centre, Mass., twenty-two miles west of Boston, and twenty miles east of Worcester on a State Road from Boston to Worcester and on the Boston and Worcester electrics. Framingham Centre is two miles north of Framingham, which is on the Boston and Albany and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroads.

When you Order Please Remember:

The more times a plant has been transplanted, root pruned, and longer cultivated in the nursery, the more vigorous and rapid growing it becomes, and the better adapted to difficult conditions. The more difficult the condition, or the quicker the result desired, the better is the grade you will need.

Deliveries. Express shipments normally arrive promptly and in good condition. For carload quantities and heavy shipments, however, Freight Shipment is best, unless the distance permits shipment by Motor Truck which is most strongly recommended. We ship by motor truck 150 miles, occasionally further. Prices for truck delivery given upon application.

We deliver free to transportation companies and our responsibility ceases upon such delivery. Shipments travel at customer's risk. We do not pay transportation charges.

There is no extra charge for packing retail orders, except when specifically noted. In comparing prices with other growers, please note this, as a considerable amount is thus saved our customers.

Little Tree Farms Warranty. We warrant our stock true to label, properly packed, and in all respects fully up to Little Tree Farms standard of quality. We guarantee that, should the wrong species or grade or quantity be shipped through error, corrections will be made upon proof and notification within ten days from receipt of goods. We assume no liability for damage beyond the amount of the purchase price. It is humanly impossible to guarantee the growth or life of trees, shrubs or plants, since causes beyond our control may injure or kill them.

We make no further guarantee or warranty in this respect. None of our salesmen or other agents are authorized, in any manner, to waive or alter the above conditions.

How To Plant

Read carefully and save your money, effort and time. If you carry out these instructions your plants should grow and be a source of lasting pleasure.

PLANTING is a very simple operation, but the way you carry out the fundamentals means success or failure. Remember that all plants are living organisms. They need air, food and water. They receive their food and strength from the ground through their roots—the most delicate part of the plants. Be sure the roots are not damaged, or your plants is as good as dead before you start. Drying out of the roots is the thing to avoid. Little Tree Farms digs a ball of earth with its larger evergreens to prevent drying out. The roots on smaller plants are much easier to protect; they are safely shipped with their roots carefully protected.

EVERGREENS

Soil preparation. Evergreens as a whole prefer a sandy loam rich in humus (decayed vegetable matter) and porous enough to permit good drainage. Clay or heavy soils should be lightened by mixing in sand and well rotted manure containing a good deal of straw. Extremely sandy soils may be improved by adding some clay or heavy loam and well rotted manure. Wherever it is possible, prepare the soil, but if this can't be done, select the plant that will grow best under your conditions.

If the plants are to be arranged in groups, as they often are around the foundation of a house, and the soil is fairly good, it is well to prepare the entire area to be planted. This is done by digging to a depth of 18 inches and thoroughly turning over the soil, removing roots, stones, and other objectionable matter. Very frequently we find that contractors use rubbish of all kinds for filling around the foundations of new houses. This rubbish, and especially plaster, is harmful to the plants and must be removed. If a soil is poor it is a wise investment to remove it and have good soil hauled in. Your plants will then have not only a much better chance to live, but will have food for years to come. A healthy plant is a joy, but a sickly plant is worse than none.

If it is difficult for you to get well rotted stable manure, sheep manure, which we can supply at reasonable prices, is a good substitute. Use about one-half pound of sheep manure for each square foot. Never use fresh manure, lime or chemical fertilizer.

Little Tree Farms quality evergreens are usually shipped "B & B" (roots in ball of burlap-tied earth).

Unpack promptly upon arrival. If balls of earth appear somewhat dry, stand the plants close together and water until balls have become thoroughly wet (figure 1). If planting cannot be done within a few hours, dig a trench, in which place the ball of earth with burlap and cover over with several inches of soil to exclude the air (figure 2). Soak the trench thoroughly afterward. Plants can be held a week or more this way if placed where it is cool and away from sun and drying winds. If the plants are bare rooted, dip the roots in a thick paste of mud and water (figure 3) and plant temporarily (called heeling-in) by placing them closely together at an angle, their roots in a trench, and cover these with soil to exclude the air. Water thoroughly.

To plant "B & B" evergreens, dig a hole 2 or 3 times the size of the ball of earth. Refill the hole with good loam until it is just large enough to take the ball. Place the burlapped ball in the hole, cut the strings and carefully remove the burlap (figure 4) preserving the ball. Shovel in some good loam and pack firmly around the ball with a tamper, or your foot, as in (figure 5). Do this several times, until the hole is two-thirds full. Then fill the hole with water, allowing it to settle. Refill several times (figure 6). Now fill the hole with soil, leaving it saucer-shaped so that the water will collect around the plant and not run away.

Bare rooted plants are planted the same as above, except that the roots are to be spread out and downwards as much as possible.

After Care. Water the ground thoroughly so that the water reaches the bottom roots. Merely sprinkling the foliage or soil is worse than no water at all. Thorough watering twice a week is usually sufficient, but this depends on weather and other conditions. After watering stir the soil to a depth of one inch as this preserves the moisture.

In late fall it is well to cover the ground around the plants with a mulch of two or three inches of well rotted stable manure. Sheep manure may be used at the rate of one pound for each five square feet. The manure should be allowed to remain over the winter.

Where it is desired to keep plants small it is necessary to "root prune." This is done by pushing a spade its entire depth into the soil in a circle around the plant. The size of this circle should be determined by the spread of the branches. The finer foliated plants should be sheared and the coarser foliated plants, such as Pines and Spruces, pruned with a knife. This root pruning with the shearing makes it possible to keep plants low and compact for a long time. The best time to shear or prune is in June, but it may be done at any time.

Little Tree Farms stock is properly packed for shipment by the most approved methods gained by many years of experience. Stock leaves us freshly dug and properly packed. Your plants should reach you in excellent condition.

After you have received good nursery stock there are three very important things that must be done to make your planting a success:

1. Proper soil preparation. 2. Correct placing of plants in the soil. 3. After care: Pruning, mulching, fertilizing, watering, etc.

These three points will be discussed for various types of plants in the instructions below.

SHADE AND FLOWERING TREES AND SHRUBS

Soil preparation. Same as for Evergreens.

Unpack promptly, and if not possible to plant immediately, "heel in" by placing the trees closely together, roots in a trench, and covering over the roots to exclude the air. See figure 2. This "heeling in" should be done in a cool place out of sun and drying winds. Water, if dry.

Planting. Dig a hole 2 or 3 times the size of the spread of the roots and refill with several inches of loose soil, making a cone-shaped mound, so that when the tree or shrub is put on top of it, the roots will have a tendency to run down the side. Then cover the roots with several inches of soil, packing firmly with a tamper, or foot, as in figure 5. Fill hole two-thirds full. Fill hole several times with water, letting it settle each time. Now fill the remaining cavity with soil so that the hole is somewhat saucer shaped; water will have the tendency to collect around the plant and not run away.

If trees are large and are likely to move in wind, they should be braced with guy wires or supported by driving in a stout stake along side of the stem, and the two tied with old hose or leather strap to prevent chafing. The tops of deciduous trees and shrubs should be pruned after planting. This means cutting out interfering branches and about one-third of the previous year's growth.

FOREST PLANTING

In planting large quantities of young trees, it is impractical to prepare the soil or to water them afterwards. One must depend on planting in moist soils at a suitable season and on the vigor of the plant and suitability to conditions. Little Tree Farms plants have great vitality and splendid roots and such are most sure to take care of themselves after proper planting.

ROSES

Soil preparation for roses is a very important and necessary factor in their success. Prepare the bed by digging to a depth of 18 inches. If the soil is good just work into it about one-third its bulk of well rotted manure (cow manure is preferred though horse manure is nearly as good).

Have soil and manure thoroughly mixed. Roses prefer a heavy soil, though a light one will suffice if properly enriched each spring.

Roses require much moisture but will not stand "wet feet," or standing water. If water does not drain through the soil readily, some means of drainage is necessary.

Unpack promptly. Upon arrival take the rose plants out of the boxes and "heel in," placing the plants closely together in a slanting position in a trench and cover over roots well with soil to exclude air. Water thoroughly. Take out but a few plants at a time.

When planting, be sure the roots do not become dry. Be sure that the roots are well spread out and the soil is firmly packed around each plant to exclude the air. Plant about two inches deeper than "the crown." (This is where the first branches rise.) This is very important. Water thoroughly.

Plant Hybrid Perpetuals, 2½ to 3 feet apart; Hybrid Teas, 1½ to 2 feet apart; Ramblers, 5 to 6 feet; Rugosa Roses for hedge, 1½ feet; Wild roses, 2 feet apart.

After Care. During the growing season keep a good mulch by stirring the top soil to a depth of an inch or so, and in dry weather water so that the bottom roots are reached.

If plants become infected with lice or aphids, spray with Black Leaf Forty. See page 48 Section II Year Book 37. Instructions for use come with each package.

Protect Hybrid Perpetuals and Hybrid Teas during the winter by heaping up soil around them so that 6 to 8 inches of the stems are buried.

Tops should be pruned back so that only 3 to 4 strong branches remain and only 4 to 6 "eyes" on each branch.

PERENNIALS

Soil preparation. Select a rich somewhat moist soil, in good light. Prepare the bed by digging to a depth of 18 inches, working in a liberal quantity of well rotted manure. Arrange the plants according to their heights and color combinations. Plant enough kinds to provide continuous bloom from spring to fall. Avoid too striking color contrasts. Do not, as a rule, set plants singly, but rather five or more of a kind together. A much richer effect is gained this way and a longer season of bloom.

Removing the burlap, Figure 4

Planting. The average distance between plants is usually about a foot. The plants which grow three feet or more are put farther apart and the very low growing plants closer together. Spring and fall are good planting seasons. April and May, September and October are the best months.

After Care. Keep plants well mulched and watered during the summer. In the winter it is well to cover the beds with about two inches of coarse straw. This is put on after the ground has frozen and prevents the alternate freezing and thawing which is detrimental to the plants. Fertilize the beds each spring by working well rotted manure or sheep manure into the surface soil.

PEONIES

Soil Preparation. To secure the best and biggest blooms from your Peonies the soil should be well prepared in advance of planting. Any good soil will do if the bed is dug to a depth of 18 inches and five or six inches of well rotted cow manure put on the bottom. This manure should be covered with four inches of soil to prevent direct contact of the manure and roots. Mix about 10 per cent of well rotted manure or leaf mould with the rest of the soil and plant the Peonies.

Planting. Peonies are best planted in early spring or during September and October.

Plant the "roots" about three inches under the surface and 2 to 3 feet apart. This gives them room to develop. Peonies are extremely hardy and need no protection after the first winter.

Stamping the plant, Figure 5

After Care. When the ground becomes workable in the spring dig the soil around the plants to a depth of an inch or two and work in some well rotted manure or bone meal taking care to keep the fertilizer away from the crown. Peonies like a lot of moisture and after the buds have formed an application of liquid manure once a week will produce larger and more brilliant blossoms. To get large flowers pick off the lateral buds and thus throw the strength into the top buds.

DAHLIAS

Soil Preparation. Dahlias like a porous soil with plenty of food material in it. Sunny or partially shaded locations are best. No matter what the soil is plants are benefited if the soil is dug to the depth of a foot or more and well rotted cow or horse manure worked in. Be sure the soil and manure are well mixed.

Planting. When planting dig a hole six inches deep place the tuber flat (eye facing upward) and cover with an inch or so of soil, then two handfuls of fertilizer. A mixture composed of good chemical potato fertilizer and ground bone meal in equal portions is best. Be sure no chemical fertilizer, or manure comes in direct contact with the tubers as this may burn them. After the plant is up about three feet hoe into the soil a handful of fertilizer every three weeks.

Dahlias should not be planted until all danger of frost is over.

After Care. Frequent cultivation is essential until the plants flower. Cultivation should then be stopped for at this time there is danger of cutting the new roots. When the first shoots of the Dahlias appear above ground there is some danger from cutworms. An application of arsenate of lead is effective. (Directions for use are found on package.) Prices on page 48, Section II Year Book 37.

Plants should be staked to prevent tender stems from breaking. Place stakes when tuber is planted. To produce very large flowers it is necessary to disbud the plant. This is done by removing some or all of the buds except the terminal one. If the plant seems over-foliaged some of the foliage may be removed with a sharp knife.

Dahlias need a generous supply of water. Soak the ground thoroughly once a week and then mulch.

After the stems and leaves have burned brown, as they do when the first frost comes, it is time to dig the tubers for storage. Dig as you would potatoes, but be careful that you do not break them apart. Cut off the stems three inches above the tubers and then place the tubers in the sun for an hour or two. Tubers should then be packed up-side-down in boxes so that excess moisture may drain out of the hollow stem. Keep in a cool frost proof place.

A temperature of about 45 degrees is good.

Do not divide your tubers until spring. Then with a sharp knife remove each tuber by cutting it from the old stalk leaving that part of the stalk which has an eye or sprout connected with the tuber. The new plant starts its growth at this eye so a tuber without an eye is worthless.

GLADIOLI

Soil Preparation. "Glads," like most plants respond best to a good loam soil with plenty of nourishment. You will be amply repaid in blossoms if you feed your plants.

Planting. Plant bulbs four inches deep in heavy soil and five to six inches deep in lighter soils. Thoroughly pulverize the soil working in well rotted stable manure. A little fertilizer or bone meal is also helpful.

To secure a succession of bloom plant a new lot of bulbs every ten days from the middle of April till the end of June.

After Care. In fall when stems have turned brown dig and store away in a cool place for six weeks. At this time tops should be cut off and the bulbs stored in a cool place, away from frost and drying heat, until spring.

ANNUALS

Soil Preparation. It is desirable that beds be renewed each fall by spading to a depth of 18 inches and working in well rotted barnyard manure. In the spring prepare the soil by working in a half pound of sheep manure to each square foot.

Watering after planting, Figure 6

Planting. Plant annual seeds after danger of frost has passed. Sow fine seeds on top of soil. Larger seeds should be covered to a depth equal to the thickness of the seed. Sweet Peas are planted about 2 inches deep and Zinnias about ½ inch deep. Press earth down firmly with a board or the palm of the hand. Sprinkle beds thoroughly with a fine spray.

To secure early flowers, seeds may be planted indoors in shallow boxes and transplanted to the garden after the danger of frost has past.

After Care. When plants are 2 to 3 inches high thin out to provide growing space for those that remain.
